He has seen one after another suffering in solitary confinement to hopeless and painful end, in opinion far worse than death. The Swiss prisoner, confined to solitary confinement, remains in one cell year after year receiving only enough food to keep him from starving. The Swiss punishment is not swift and sure, but slow and long drawn out, which is the refinement of cruelty.

SINCE CIVIL WAR.

Col. Condon, Supposed to Be Dead, Meets Relatives from Whom He Had Been Separated.

A family reunion took place in Chicago a few weeks ago after a separation of 35 years. Col. James A. Condon, of the Twelfth Pennsylvania Cavalry of the civil war volunteers, long supposed by his family to have been dead, recently ascertained that his brother and sisters had moved to Chicago from Pennsylvania, and upon learning their whereabouts came to Chicago from his home in New York. He found that his brother, W. H. Condon, is an lawyer with an office on La Salle street, and his home in River Forest, where his sisters live also. The Chicago attorney and his sisters were overjoyed to learn that their relative was alive, as they had heard nothing from him since the close of the war. Col. Condon proposes that the reunion with his family shall be permanent and intends to bring his home for the future with his brother at River Forest.

Mr. Condon entered the army as a private of company G, Fifteenth Pennsylvania infantry, and after a few months' service was elected captain of his company. He was promoted to the rank of major and at the close of the war had attained the rank of lieutenant colonel. He was later made colonel of the cavalry regiment. At the close of the war he was brevetted a brigadier general. After the war ended for a few years he taught elocution and numbered Archbishop Newman among his pupils.

REMOVAL OF MINES.

All Cables and Electrical Apparatus to Come Up, Now, from the Harbors as Well as Mines.

Secretary Alger has directed that all mines, cables and electrical apparatus in the rivers and harbors of the United States be removed. The work will be performed by the engineer of the army as rapidly as possible, due regard being made to the safety of the vessels passing in the vicinity of the mines.

Brig. Gen. Wilson, chief of engineers, has issued orders to all the officers in charge of the fortifications and other works of defense from which mines are operated to remove these obstructions. Immediately after the destruction of Admiral Cervera's fleet by the American squadron a request was made by various shipping companies that all mines be removed from the harbor of New York. After careful consideration the request was granted, but the mines were removed in such a manner that the cable connections with the shore were not destroyed. The new order, however, provides that all apparatus connected with mines and other obstructions be removed.

THE FAD BOATS.

The Ram Katabdin and Dynamite Cruiser Vesuvius to Be Placed Out of Commission.

It has been decided by the navy department to place the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius out of commission and it is doubtful if this vessel will again form a part of the navy. Experts do not regard the Vesuvius as being a success. Upon investigation it appears the work done by the dynamite cruiser at Santiago was not nearly so effective as was at first reported. The main trouble with the Vesuvius is that its guns are immovable, and hence its fire is not accurate. In order to aim the guns upon this vessel the position of the cruiser has to be changed. An officer in the navy department said in speaking of the Vesuvius:

"It was never known to hit but one thing, and that was the island of Cuba. It is believed that in an actual engagement with a warship it would be worthless."

The ram Katabdin will also be placed out of commission. Both these vessels were in sea measure experiments, and upon repeated tests have proven to be failures.
